DescriptionToday's Activities:

Beijing is the capital of the People's Republic of China and has been an historic center of power, culture and finance that continues to today. The tour starts at Tian'anmen Square and an overview of the communist influences on the country. You'll tour the grounds and see the array of halls and monuments. From there you walk to the Forbidden City, also known as the Imperial Palace Museum. With over 180 acres and collection of great halls, you will see antiques and treasures representing all of China's history.

After a stop for lunch, you will visit the Badaling section of the Great Wall, one of the best-preserved sections of this 2,000 year-old architectural wonder. You will be able to climb the Wall and have a panoramic view at the top. During the day you will stop and shop at the famous Longdi Jade Factory where you will be able to enjoy some of the best bargains available for jade-related products.

HD02: Hutong rickshaw tour with making dumplings at local family

Sense the Beijing local resident's daily life on a trishaw riding along meandering backstreet alleys.

You will visit the magnificent gardens at the Prince Gong's Mansion, Beijing's largest and the best preserved royal mansion of the Qing Dynasty. This tour will be highlighted by taking rickshaw, also known as a pedicab. This portion of the tour allows you to get a taste of life in the city as your driver pedals through the old, narrow streets----Hutongs. You will stop to visit the home of a Chinese family and learn how to make dumplings with housewife.

HD03: 798 art zone

The area occupied by Beijing 798 Art Zone was once the place for Beijing North China wireless joint equipment factory, which was designed and built by the experts of former G.D.R in the 1950s. In December, 2000. To cooperate the reforming plan of Dashanzi Area, the factories were rented out for short term. Attracted by ordered designing, convenient traffic, unique style of Bauhaus architecture, many art organizations and artists came to rent the vacant plants and transformed them, gradually formed a district gathered galleries, art studios, cultural companies, fashion shops etc. As the earliest area where the art organizations and artists moved in located in the original area of 798 factory, this place was named as Beijing 798 Art Zone.

HD04: Beijing Morning Exercise Tour

"Sleep early and get up early will keep you fit" is a well-known Chinese philosophy for long life. Every morning, thousand of local people get together in the parks doing morning exercises which shaped a very special sight of Beijing. With the first sunlight and the singing of chirping birds, early birds go to Temple of Heaven to learn Taiji—a 500 year old Chinese physical exercise from local resident. With slow and peaceful movement, your body is wakening up and energized. You'll feel yourself a super man and ready to go!!

HD05: Silk Market and Antique Bazaar

The Silk Market has undergone a major revamp last year cleaning out most of the "Guzzi" "Luis Voltton" stalls (fake goods). Though locals report that some of the stall owners have simply adopted a sneakier strategy and will pull out counterfeit products when prompted. We'd like to advise you against buying fake branded-goods as (aside from the whole IP scenario) the cheap material used to manufacture them may pose serious health threats, and the vast majority of them are made using child labor or women at below sweatshop level wages.

The Antique Bazaar requires a certain level of "training" (or intuitive skill) from a shopper for him/her to dig out that piece of authentic Song-era china among imitations. But if you are not the collector type, then shop away - as many of the so-called imitations serve as perfect showpieces in your hotel
